Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 04 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Dry with sunny spells this morning, but rain arriving later.

Today:
A few patches of fog and low cloud early on, but otherwise a dry morning, with prolonged spells of sunshine. However, during the afternoon cloud will move in from the south, with rain following later, heavy in places. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloudy with outbreaks of rain this evening, heavy and persistent early on. Rain easing after midnight, with most places becoming predominantly dry but remaining rather cloudy and murky. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Friday:
A largely dry day, but the morning will be mostly cloudy and murky. It will gradually become brighter through the day, with some sunny spells developing in the afternoon. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cloudy Saturday with rain developing. Rain turning wintry overnight, as it becomes windy and markedly colder, before gradually easing on Sunday. Windy and very cold Monday with scattered snow showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.